WINDY DAYS MEAN MANY COLDS. These El Paso winds seem to give people colds. Perhaps you aren't as careful as you should be. Why wait until you have a really bad cold before doing anything for it? The first day you feel "dopey" and know a cold is coming on take one of White's Cold Tablets and nip that cold in the bud. For a cough there is nothing so soothing as White's White Pine and Tar. Both these prescriptions are put up and sold by

A Happy Couple

By Nathan M. Levy.

You'll find her at the little tea where gossip is the fashion; In bridge much happiness she sees, And dress with her a passion.

He likes a quiet billiard game; To yachting he's devoted; And at the club he has fame—For poker there he's noted.

The happiest of men is he In all the ranks of swiftness, And satisfied with life is he; They never dispute—or seldom.

A happy married couple—20. They know not broil or tangle; They only meet at meals, and so Have little time to wrangle.

Receptions, Dinners and Other Social Gatherings

On New Year's evening Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Turney threw open their beautiful new home on Montana street, and extended a most cordial welcome to their large number of friends.

The new home, long heralded as one of the most magnificent in the city, is in construction and artistic character, a pleasing expression of the colonial style. Its broad halls and spacious reception rooms bespeak the delightful hospitality of the host and hostess.

In the appointments there is evidence of much artistic thought, the rich mahogany furnishings, blending softly with the subtle coloring chosen for each room.

As seen in perspective, the home with its brilliant lighting effects, spacious grounds, massive pillars, and pleasing lines, makes an architectural picture. Palms and cut flowers placed about the apartments, enhanced the beauty of the scene with their natural loveliness.

The table, from which sandwiches and coffee were served, held a handsome center piece of lace upon which rested a tall vase of carnations and ferns.

Mrs. Turney was assisted in entertaining, and serving refreshments and punch, by a number of her friends, who added to the charming informality of the evening.

It used to be true that bifocal glasses were troublesome, and "old" looking, and trying to the eyes. It is NOT true of KRYPTOKS—the new bifocals that look and wear like plain glasses, but give perfect near-and-far vision.
